March 1, 2019, MONTCLAIR, NJ – Montclair Film today unveiled the 2019 Montclair Film Festival artwork. The festival’s artwork was designed by local graphic artist Daniel Hertzberg. The campaign was developed by Montclair Film Directors of Marketing Kelly Coogan Swanson and Lisa Ingersoll, and was created to illustrate the way in which the festival brings unique, diverse stories to the screen.

“My vision behind the Montclair Film Festival poster was to show films from around the world converging to become a center of differing opinions, perspectives, and voices,” said designer Daniel Hertzberg. “The rectangular shapes represent film screens with the shapes, colors, and widths varying throughout the composition. Montclair is a cultural icon of New Jersey, and a place I have called home for over five years. Its identity is rooted in diversity, representing all walks of life.”

The 2019 Montclair Film Festival takes place May 3-12, 2019 in Montclair, NJ. The complete festival program will be announced on Friday, April 5, with Member tickets available beginning at 10:00 am, Monday, April 8, at montclairfilm.org. Public tickets will be available at 10:00 AM on Friday, April 12. Social media will feature the hashtag #MFF19 for use in posting about and following festival activity.
